Monolith. A note

Monolith distils the presence of quarried stone into hand-laid fiberglass forms that can be lifted by two people and placed anywhere. Each piece is a single, unbroken mass, with edges softened by hand and surfaces finished to read as genuine travertine, limestone, plaster or charcoal stone.

Our travertine finish is built in layered mineral pigments over the gel-coat, then hand-pitted to reproduce the open, horizontal voids of the natural stone. The surface is sealed matte, so it holds light softly and resists fingerprints, water and everyday use in trade environments.
