Echoes. A note

01 — THE COLLECTION

Echoes borrows the proportions, rhythms and gestures of ancient architecture and vessels, then removes everything narrative until only form remains. No script, no figures, no copies; just the memory of a column, a step, a vessel, reconsidered as contemporary objects for hospitality and private spaces.

Honed limestone is layered in pale mineral tones and sanded to a dry, velvety surface that absorbs rather than reflects light. Faint speckling and minute tonal shifts are introduced by hand so that no two pieces are identical, while the sealed finish remains practical for trade use.
